EVERYONE KNOWS
THE IMPORTANCE OF TEAMS.

VERY FEW HAVE EXPERIENCED THE POWER OF TEAMWORK.

WHY?

The truth is, most of us end up disappointed by our experience of working in a group.

All too often, 'teams' diminish rather than enable; slow down what they should accelerate; and dissipate energy, rather than focus and multiply its impact.

Yet we all aspire to something better from ourselves and our teams. We mythologise teamwork in every Hollywood blockbuster; we marvel at it in music, art, and sport; and we fetishise the success of big-name teams in business and management.

We know there are true teams out there. And we know real teamwork has extraordinary power: giving each of us the chance to transcend our limits, forging strengths and abilities together that could not exist outside the team.

How can you make this happen for the teams you work with?

We don't have the answers.

You do.

Our Unlimited programme will help you and your cohort find them, together.

COACHING WITH GROUPS

NOT GROUP THINK

The programme is Unlimited by name and unlimited by design.

No Proprietary Models, no guru, no tablets of stone. We take a different approach.

Through a single, shared set of Parameters we will explore any coaching method, psychological angle, challenge, or insight you can share - and devise new solutions together.

(Not much point teaming up with other leading coaches, if you're not going to learn from each other and grow.)

Maturity rEQuiRED

Coaching is a team game played with courage and candour.

Meyler Campbell will not train you, nor tell you what to do.

Instead, with determination and an open mind, you'll work with Faculty members and the rest of your cohort to discover solutions: sharing and reflecting on your experience and that of others; developing your skills, and supporting your peers as they grow too.

Unlimited is not so much a 'course' as an opportunity to learn and build. What will you make of it?

SLIPS QUIETLY AWAY”

Who it's for

Not everyone - and not every successful business coach, or Meyler Campbell graduate either.

- Team coaching is a distinct discipline, with unique rewards and challenges. Whether you're a seasoned team coach, or embarking on it for the first time, you need to be fully committed - and armed with the emotional intelligence and maturity the practice demands
- To join the Unlimited programme, you must also be a practising business coach

If you meet these criteria, and have completed our Mastered programme, you'll be well equipped to appreciate what Unlimited can offer.

If you're new to Meyler Campbell, you've found one of the most respected executive coaching communities in the world. Expect a learning experience that is both rigorous and open - and a diverse assortment of individuals who nonetheless have much in common: astute, welcoming, respectful, and true collaborators.

How it works

If your application is successful, you'll join 11 other practising business coaches, and 2 members of the Meyler Campbell Faculty.

Together this cohort will complete a mix of structured learning modules, group work, and independent investigation and analysis - spanning a minimum of around 6 months.

There are 4 elements to the Unlimited programme:

- Taught Content. 5 half-day modules, delivered at key stages throughout the programme
- Your own Team Coaching Project, which you'll discuss with your cohort and analyse. (This project might arise from an existing relationship or role, or be something you undertake especially for Unlimited)
- Supervision to accompany each taught module, where you will work as part of a smaller group, with a single Faculty member
- Your Experience and Learning Record: a log of your experiences and observations throughout the programme, together with any other relevant training or study you undertake along the way. This Record will be presented to the assessment panel at the end of the programme, along with your Project case study

On completion of the programme, a panel of Meyler Campbell Faculty members will review your experience, and the material you submit, before evaluating your Qualification.
