HERE TO CONNECT

When senior businesspeople want to develop themselves as coaches, they come to Meyler Campbell.

Since 1999 we have taken almost 1,000 people through our coaching programmes. All of them have been drawn from the ranks of the world's most admired enterprise leaders, consultants, entrepreneurs, athletes, public servants and professional services partners. The majority of them go on to offer coaching as part of their portfolio of activities.

We know them each one of them deeply, and trust them implicitly.

Nowhere else will you find such a wide community of diverse, seasoned, experienced leaders who are as devoted to their learning and practice as coaches. They are characterised by a belief in the value of coaching, the importance of leadership and the impact of what they do.

And most importantly, when we put you in touch we know they will be the right people to coach you.

HERE TO SOLVE

It's not what you know, you know?

Meyler Campbell was founded 25 years ago as a centre of expertise for training leadership coaches of the highest calibre, and to host an international community that could offer them ongoing support and development opportunities.

Guided by a Faculty of around 20 Tutors, our generous, lively and diverse coaching community now boasts over 1,000 senior business leaders, who work around the world and across all sectors.

Fifty percent have current leadership positions within organisations, while the other half go on to develop successful business coaching and portfolio careers.

You're in the driving seat. We just bridge the gap.

You are looking for a portfolio of coaches to meet your need - tell us what your challenges are, and your criteria for success. We'll listen, and simply introduce you to a hand-chosen selection for you to run a chemistry process with and see who lands perfectly for you.

If you like, we can design the engagement and handle contracting, invoicing and process management. Or you can take that on directly yourself. All we want is for you to find coaches you can trust.

How it works.

We're not a coaching provider, but a community of practitioners. Trusted simply introduces members of the Meyler Campbell community to anyone looking for the best people, and the best match for their needs.

Only the right connection can unlock all your potential. Your shortlist of (usually three) coaches are handpicked by the Trusted team: because it takes a great coach to know one.

Meet with the candidates on the list, then decide on the best fit.

The real, and most exciting, work begins: working with your chosen coach to realise your own, or your team's, goals.
